LIST OF POPULAR METAL FACES REPRODUCED IN WOOD TYPE

THE specimens of Wood Type shown in this Catalogue cover many reproductions of popular metal faces which are known to the trade by the respective names given to the designs by the Type Founders who originated them. As we show our type specimens by numbers rather than by names, we give here a list of some of these reproductions and the corresponding numbers which we have given them, also indicating the pages in this Catalogue where these reproductions of metal faces will be found shown. It should be borne in mind that any style can be made in any size desired, and furnished in any size of font, either with caps only, or with caps and figures, or complete with caps, lower case and figures. We can also supply sorts of any desired number and size from a single letter to a complete font. Some of the faces reproduced and shown in this Catalogue are as follows:

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING WOOD TYPE

The prices for all sizes of any style can be found by referring to the price list on Page 5. The left hand column gives the size of the type or lines pica; the letters L, M, N, etc., at the top of the table, give the class to which the style belongs and the figures in the different columns give the prices for the various sizes. The scale of fonts given on the same page shows the number of letters in the different sized fonts. Always state whether Caps alone are wanted, or Caps and Figures, or Caps, Lower Case and Figures, and also state how large a font—that is the number of A's, which always governs the size of the font as will be noticed by referring to the table of fonts on Page 5. Give full directions for shipping unless it is desired to leave the matter to us, in which case we will ship the cheapest way, freight or express.

Reminiscence and Assurance

THIS is the seventeenth issue of our Wood Type Catalogue. Each of the preceding sixteen issues has fulfilled its mission, and the knowledge of what constitutes first-class Wood Type has been spread broadcast throughout the civilized world. The making of Wood Type was the first step undertaken by The Hamilton Manufacturing Company in the manufacture of modern Printing Office Furniture, and this was more than twenty-five years ago. Since that time our trade has extended until now more than 35,000 printing offices in North America, and 20,000 foreign printing offices are equipped with modern Hamilton furniture.

However, we have never lost sight of the Wood Type question, and year by year our methods have improved until today we can offer the printer Wood Type which we can guarantee to be the best ever manufactured. Our type is cut on solid end-grain Wisconsin Rock Maple, absolutely the hardest of American woods, and every letter is perfect in point-line, as well as in height. The height of type is the most important feature, and it is the real test of what constitutes good Wood Type. We ask all printers who purchase our Wood Type to give it a most rigid test in this respect, and we stand ready to replace all letters which are more than one-thousandth of an inch from being true type-high. Underlaying of our Wood Type is unnecessary. Every printer knows what that means. It is a nuisance to have Wood Type in your office which varies the thickness of a thin cardboard. Such type will prove a continual expense in the way of stoppages and a loss of time. Therefore, the most perfect Wood Type that can be purchased is always the cheapest, and when such type as we make is also the cheapest in price, there can be no question of choice. Any Wood Type purchased of us which does not prove satisfactory to our customers, can be returned at our expense.

The showing of Wood Type faces in this Catalogue does not embrace more than one-fifth of the designs for which we have the patterns. If there is any particular style you want cut in wood, write us and the chances are we have the patterns for cutting it.

The illustration of our works in this Catalogue will show the extent of our growth. Our plant covers ten acres, and we have 450,000 square feet of floor space in our various buildings, and every foot is utilized in the manufacture of Modern Printing Office Furniture. There are only two things which could accomplish this remarkable growth; they are quality and fair treatment. It will be our aim to maintain the first, and merit the reputation with our patrons of giving them the latter.

SCALE OF FONTS

Showing the number of letters in each font from 3A's to 30A's. Heretofore it has not been customary to list large fonts of Wood Type, and customers have been compelled to double and treble the small fonts, thus acquiring too many of the least used characters. These fonts are carefully assorted and do not contain surplus characters.

When not included, extra letters most used are added to make up the full number of characters. In some styles the design includes special characters which are charged extra. Check your invoices by counting the number of characters received.

Hamilton's Cutting-Stick for Paper Cutters

No device has ever been offered the trade which has met with greater success. Thousands are now in use and we have yet to hear of one that is not satisfactory. The best printers and binders in the country are equipping their machines with them. There is a saving of over 80 per cent. of the cost of Cutting-Sticks after the first purchase. For example: The main body-piece with four dozen strips costs $6.00. Four dozen ordinary Cutting-Sticks, at $1.50 per dozen, will cost the same amount. When future strips are ordered the cost is 25 cents per dozen, and the same amount of cutting surface is obtained as with a dozen regular Cutting-Sticks at $1.50. Besides, there is a considerable saving in transportation charges, one dozen strips weighing less than a single Cutting-Stick. After fitting the main body-piece to your machine, no future measurements are required, as all our strips are made a uniform size, and it is only necessary to give the length required.

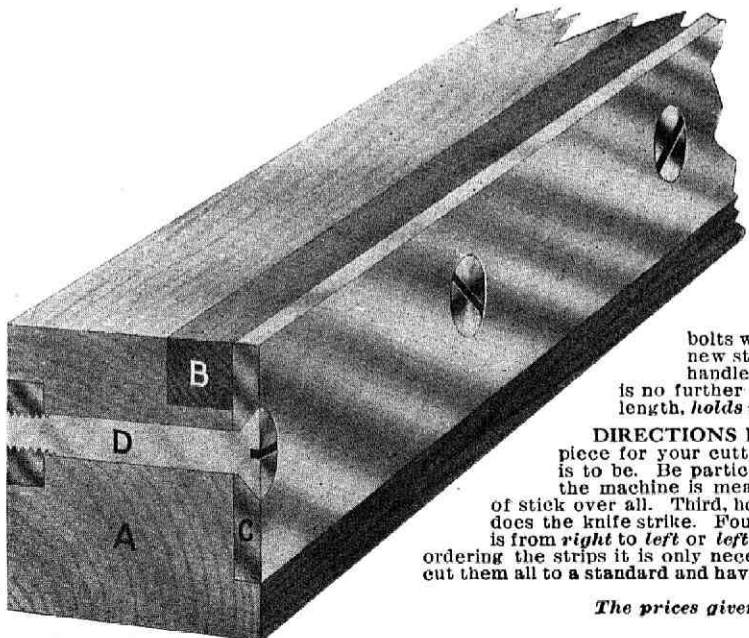

DESCRIPTION—Our Cutting-Stick consists of a main body-piece (A), which has a groove or recess out the entire length of same to receive a small strip (B), 5-16 of an inch square. This removable strip is the cutting surface and is held in place by a steel clamp (C), which is drawn up by the bolts (D). This removable strip being square, can be used on four sides, thus giving the same cutting surface as large-sized sticks. To remove the strip from body-piece, it is only necessary to loosen the bolts with a screw-driver, when the strip can be turned over and a new surface presented; or, if worn out, a new strip can be inserted. The act of changing is a very simple matter and can be done by any boy able to handle a screw-driver. The main body-piece is made to fit any paper cutter, and when properly fitted there is no further trouble. The body-piece cannot warp, as the strip of steel, securely screwed to the wood its entire length, holds it fast and makes it utterly impossible for it to warp.

DIRECTIONS FOR ORDERING—In ordering a body-piece for your cutter: First, give size square that the stick is to be. Be particular on this point and see that the slot in the machine is measured accurately. Second, give length of stick over all. Third, how far from the front edge of the stick does the knife strike. Fourth, state whether the shear of the knife is from right to left or left to right when facing the machine. In ordering the strips it is only necessary to give the length of stick, as we cut them all to a standard and have but one size.

The prices given to the right are Net.

NEW SERIES OF FLORAL BORDERS

This series of Floral Borders consists of 12 separate characters as shown below, and each separate character can be worked into a border, combined with a rule, or two or more characters can be combined with pleasing effect. These borders are not stamped like ordinary wood borders, but they are machine and hand carved, therefore a little higher priced than the regular stamped borders. The handsome appearance and the pleasing effects produced, and the variety of the forms that can be worked out will more than compensate for the increased cost over plain labor-saving border.

ART NOUVEAUX BORDER

We show here a new Wood Border which we feel sure printers will appreciate. It is after the prevailing style of Art Nouveaux, now so popular in all departments of decoration, and which had its origin in Germany. There are two styles of corners—right and left; two styles of center pieces—right and left, and two styles of end drops—right and left. A font consists of two pieces each, characters Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6—with eight feet of rule to match. This gives abundance of material to surround a full sheet poster.

A variety of combinations can be secured in combining the different characters, and the set effect common to most borders is entirely overcome.

MINNEOLA WOOD BORDER

This new Border follows the prevailing style of Art Nouveaux now so popular in all styles of decoration. A variety of combinations can be secured and it breaks the set effect so common in most borders. It is in fact many borders combined into one. The set comprises various styles of corners, center pieces and drops, which combined with the rule to match, will produce most artistic effects. There are 10 different characters of which 2 each are furnished with each font, or 20 characters in all, besides 8 feet of rule to match. Cut on end wood rock maple, and the rule is furnished in labor-saving lengths cut to picas.

THE LIFE OF HERR GUTENBERG

DEDICATED TO MEMBERS OF THE CRAFT

By The C. C. Burbank Co., Publishers of "Chop Suey," St. Paul, Minn.

ON a glorious sunny morning in the year 13 — (but there has always been more or less uncertainty about the exact year, so we'll say it was near the close of the fourteenth century) Herr Gutenberg was routed out of bed in his mansion in the City of Mentz at an unearthly hour and hustled off to round-up the family physician, as there were some indications of immediate doin's in the Gutenberg family.

The Herr Gutenberg had been in training some time for this event, so he dug his knuckles into his eyes, his legs into his pants, and without stopping to put on a shirt, of which he had a great number, being a well-to-do German, sprinted across lots for the medicine man.

Of course a stout German gentleman could not tear around town at six o'clock in the morning, minus a shirt, without attracting attention, and the wives in the neighborhood of the Gutenbergs were rather wise to the Frau Gutenberg's condition, so by the time the good German returned with the doctor there were sufficient of the neighborhood ladies in attendance to give proper eclat to the occasion.

The doctor, with the assistance of the visiting ladies, soon had things in readiness for the arrival of the stork and of all the trips the great bird has made he has never been freighted with a burden so precious as on this visit to the home of Johannes Gutenberg in the City of Mentz. For on that beautiful morning, on the banks of the Rhine, was born John Gutenberg, to whose inventive genius the world is indebted for the noble art of printing.

* * * * *

As a boy he was secretive, passionate, sensitive to criticism, but above all he was industrious and persevering. As he grew into young manhood these characteristics became more pronounced, and, taking sides in the civil strife that marked the times, his passionate nature quickly got him into trouble, and his enemies being in power, he was promptly exiled and his property confiscated.

This all happened at a time when the sword was mightier than the pen and it is highly probable that the sword would still be the greater power were the pen not backed by its efficient ally, the battalions of little black types invented by John Gutenberg. There were thinkers and writers in Gutenberg's time, but the pen, unaided, made very little headway into the dense mass of ignorance that existed at that period.

When kings were mighty lucky to own a bible, poor men had a tough time learning their prayers. Books chained to the wall or kept in glass cases, or strong boxes in monasteries, don't radiate much knowledge into the farm houses and tenements of the land.

While Gutenberg was engaged in his studies and experiments he had passed all his spare time in the company of Anna Thur and as a proof that the time was not lost they became betrothed. Gutenberg was deeply attached to this lady, but for some reason refused to carry out his promise and Papa Thur, stepping into the breach, hustled him into court to see whether a young man with inventive abilities and yellow whiskers dast promise a sweet young girl marriage and then back up into the breechings and refuse to make good. This law suit took place in Strasbourg, where Gutenberg had gone after his exile from Mentz. It was the first of several law cases that he had and he lost it; but in losing he won, for Anna von Thur proved herself a loyal, cheerful, industrious and frugal wife. She was of noble family, and the best that Gutenberg could give her was a cottage, in which she took much interest, beautifying it and the surroundings, inciting Gutenberg by her words and actions to greater energy in his pursuits and encouraging him in the many troublous times that he met.

While Gutenberg was devising and trying to perfect his plans for the economical production of books and pictures, he gained a meager living as a lapidary. The front room of the cottage was turned into a shop and there during the day he polished precious stones and mirrors, and at night he labored over his wooden blocks and made trial after trial to get an ink that would print from them properly.

He had no press as yet. A press would cost money and that was the rarest thing in the Gutenberg cottage. There was love there, and patience, and perseverance, and industry but none of these were negotiable, so Gutenberg had not given much thought to a press. He would daub some ink on one of his engraved blocks, place a sheet of paper on it and by rubbing with a smooth piece of wood get sufficient pressure to make the impression. A second sheet would go thru the same process on another block, the two sheets would be pasted together and there would be two pages of a book ready to be bound.

A slow process, eh! Yes, it was so slow that John Gutenberg and his wife Anna came to the edge of starvation. Gutenberg wavered; there was at least a living in polishing mirrors and precious stones; but the wife had confidence in Gutenberg and his invention, so they starved on and Gutenberg devoted still more time to his new art.

It's a long step back to the days when printing was being invented. There have been many changes and improvements but the starvation feature as practiced by Gutenberg and his wife hasn't changed a particle. Printers starve now in just the same way Gutenberg did five hundred years ago.

Of course Gutenberg could not go on like this indefinitely. There comes a time in such cases where the body refuses to be driven any longer by the will and this was the condition with Gutenberg when he was solicited for a partnership by Andreas Dritzhn a well-to-do Strasbourger. Several other citizens were taken into the firm and Gutenberg found himself in possession of means to prosecute his inventions without the worry caused by his former financial difficulties.

He soon worked out a model of a press and had one constructed.

Affairs were going along swimmingly for Gutenberg now; the print shop was a very busy place and tho the demand for books was limited in Strasbourg, they were making small editions and selling everything they printed; but all their plans were disarranged by the sudden death of Dritzhn, and the action of two brothers who were his heirs.

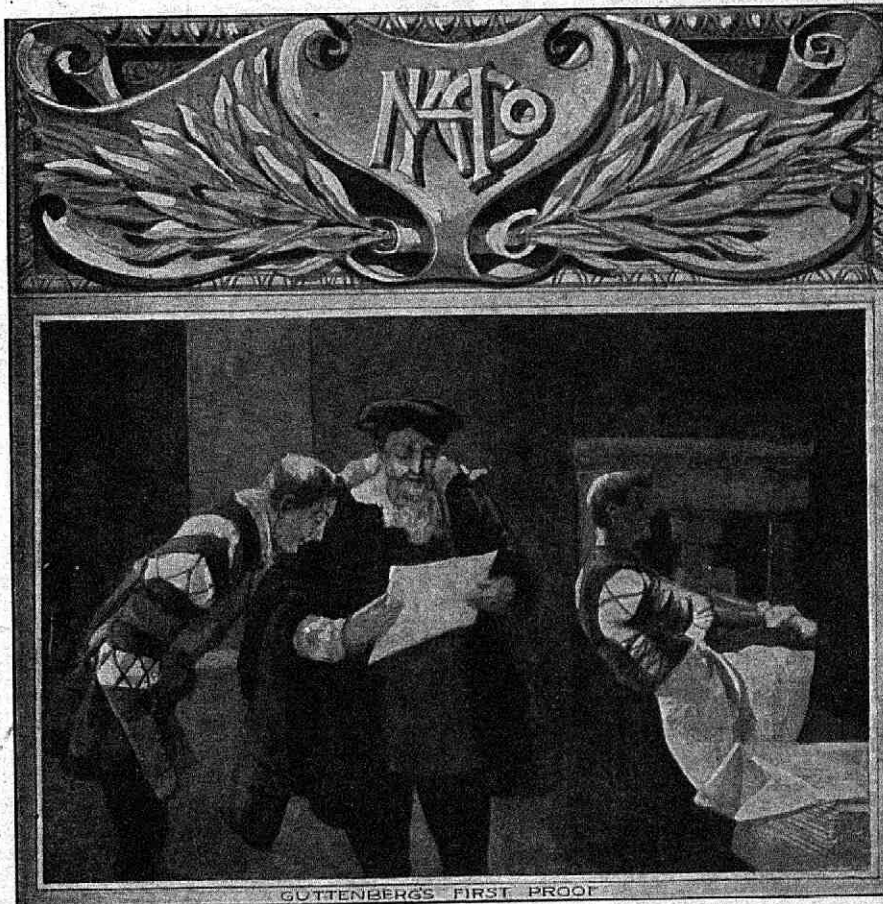

These two crafty relatives of an honest man wanted to succeed their brother as members of the firm and altho the partnership agreement provided for just the contrary, they started a suit against Gutenberg to force him to take them in. They lost the suit, but so much publicity was given to Gutenberg's undertaking that he decided to destroy his plant.

It was a heart-breaking finish to such noble plans and Gutenberg, discouraged, determined to leave Strasbourg. Until just before the destruction of the plant at Strasbourg, Gutenberg had done all his printing from solid wooden blocks with a full page on each block; but at this time he conceived the idea of forming each letter on a block by itself. This was the crowning discovery of his life as it made possible the use of the type on many different books, whereas the solid block could only be used on the one book for which they were made. Gutenberg's banishment from Mentz had been raised and on leaving Strasbourg he returned to his native city. In partnership with John Faust he again erected a press and prepared to print books on a larger scale than at Strasbourg.

This partnership continued for several years but was terminated by the greed of Faust, who forced Gutenberg out just before the completion of the bible which they had commenced to print four years before and which was the greatest work Gutenberg had ever undertaken. Disgusted with partnerships he started alone. His plant was small and poorly equipped. The competition of Faust and his own lack of means made the business unremunerative and after a few years he sold out and retired from active participation in his art.

His work was recognized in his later days and honors were plentifully bestowed upon him.

He died in 1468, in the city that gave him birth. The clouds that hung over him so long passed away in time to allow his last days to be peaceful and happy.
