„La Chirurgie veut de la prudence et exclut toute témérité. Moreau.

II.

Pyæmia puris absorptione explicari nequit.

III.

Circa puris generationes dolores et febres magis
accedunt, quam ipso facto.

Hippocr. Aph. Sect. II aph. 47.

IV.

In hernia strangulata cataplasmata calida in genere
plus nocent quam prosunt.

V.

Fasciæ amylaceæ æque minus ac gypseæ in recenti fractura commendari merentur.

VI.

In ligatura arteriarum filum rotundum lato est praeferendum.

Recte Hasner de Cirsophthalmia: „Wir müssen hier ferner die seit Beer noch immer vorkommende Ansicht, dass die Cirsophthalmie in Augenkrebs übergehen könne, als eine ganz allgemein gefasste und irrthümliche abweisen. Gewöhnlich wird gesagt, die Cirsophthalmie habe die Neigung in Carcinom des Bulbus umzuschlagen und das Auge solle, wenn es diese Metamorphose einzugehen droht, extirpirt werden.“

XVII.

Egredie Ruete de cataracta capsulari: „Einen Kapselstaar, d. h. eine Trübung der Linsenkapsel selbst, gibt es im wahren Sinne des Wortes wahrscheinlich nicht.“

XVIII.

Inter diversas suturas ad enterorrhaphiam instituendam propositas Lembertii sutura a Dupuijtren emendata optima.

XIX.

Recte Dieffenbach monet de effectu operationum ad sanationem radicalem varicum institutarum: „Eene slagaderbreuk is een gevaarlijk gebrek, hetwelk den dood ten gevolge heeft, indien het niet wordt genezen; eene aderspat echter kan alleen een lastig gebrek zijn: de operatie van het eerste is intusschen veel minder gevaarlijk dan die van het laatste, en die zich aan dezelve onderwerpt, zet zijn leven op het spel om van eenigen last bevrijd te worden.“
