PREFACE

In connection with Commission I, "On Carrying the Gospel to All the Non-Christian World," Sub-Committees on Statistics and Atlas were appointed, charged with the duty of compiling a Statistical Atlas representing the present status of missionary activities. This volume is herewith presented, and though necessarily a separate publication, it is an integral part of the Report of the Commission. It consists of a directory of missionary societies working among non-Christians throughout the world, a statistical presentation of their operations in each country, an atlas of mission fields, and an index of principal stations occupied.

A statistical compilation of this kind should not be regarded, except in a very secondary sense, as a record of human achievement in the missionary enterprise, but rather as an imperfect, though grateful and reverent, chronicle of what God is doing through His servants in advancing His Kingdom in the world. It has, moreover, a further and indirect mission as a suggestion of what an immense task still awaits the Christian Church, a task which calls for new consecration, loyalty, and sacrifice, in order to its proper discharge. The study of the Atlas will especially emphasize this vision of the task.

The researches of the Commission as a whole, including its Sub-Committees on Statistics and Maps, have conformed strictly to the plan and scope of the Conference as concerned exclusively with missions to the non-Christian world. This will explain the presentation only in part of the data of many societies, and the entire omission of a few societies having no work among non-Christians.

The data have been gathered, with but trifling exceptions, at first hand from the official staff of missionary societies, or from their published reports; or, as in certain cases, direct from the fields, when complete or detailed returns were not available at the home offices. The statistics in the great majority of instances, according to the rule agreed upon, represent the returns of the year 1907, as published in the reports issued in 1908, but occasionally, when gathered directly from the field, or from other sources than printed reports, those of 1908 have been inserted. Only in a very few instances, where nothing else was available, have returns for 1909 been entered. Missions to the Jews are recorded in separate tables.

Statistics of missions conducted by the Roman Catholic Church, and those of the Russian Orthodox Church, are presented separately. The sources upon which these have been based are the official publications of these communions.

The statistics under the titles of General and Evangelistic, Educational, Medical, Philanthropic and Reformatory, with Mission Presses, and, so far as possible, the Bible Societies, have been arranged in the same geographic order as has been observed in the Survey of Fields in the main Report of the Commission, so that the reader will be able to follow each section of that Report with the tables representing corresponding fields in the same order. Further details will be found in the Explanatory Notes introducing each Part of this volume.

The financial responsibility for the publication of this volume, which, with the exception of the maps, was printed in the United States, has been assumed by the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions.

It is impossible, even with the utmost endeavor, to accomplish a work of this kind without some unwitting errors, and it is in full recognition of this fact and of other imperfections in the service rendered that this volume is respectfully submitted to members of the Conference and to all who may wish to consult it. A compilation dealing with such a complicated and perplexing mass of details must needs be commended to kindly criticism and charitable judgment on the part of its readers.

It is hoped that this Statistical Atlas, instead of being a dry and forbidding array of figures and maps, may prove an inspiring index of what God Himself is doing to hasten the extension, and to insure the triumph of His Kingdom as well as an incentive to the Church to complete its task.

DIRECTORY OF MISSIONARY SOCIETIES

EXPLANATORY NOTES

The Directory of Missionary Societies is limited in its entries to societies which conduct operations, either wholly or in part, amongst non-Christians. Societies at work in behalf of the Jews are entered in a separate section of the Directory. Societies whose operations are conducted solely within a Christian constituency are not listed.

Missionary agencies are divided into (1) Societies Appointing and Sending Out Missionaries, and (2) those aiding or cooperating with other organisations, or working in some specialized sphere in the interests of foreign missions, under the general title of Cooperating and Collecting Societies.

Societies are further classified as to their nationality and ecclesiastical connection, and as to the character and scope of their work, whether conducted independently or related as auxiliaries to principal societies, in which case they are entered in smaller type than the parent society.

In dealing with the income and disbursements, it has proved impossible, in many cases, to indicate accurately the sources of supply or extent of disbursements exclusively for the support of work amongst non-Christians, since this information is not recorded in any uniform method by different societies. An endeavour has been made to do this, however, where sufficient data were available. The income designated as from the field seems to vary greatly in meaning in the returns of different societies. In some cases it indicates the sum which was available for disbursement from the headquarters of the society, through its home treasury. More often it indicates money raised and disbursed on the field, including sometimes government grants. In some cases it indicates the estimated value of gifts made "in kind," by natives, for furthering the work of the Gospel. It has been the endeavour of the Committee to give in each case the total income of the society, and then to designate the amounts disbursed among non-Christians, wherever the division of expenditure could be determined. Where no income from foreign sources is mentioned, the inference is justified that the entire amount is from the home constituency, or from endowments, or from interest on special funds.

In connection with many societies an effort has been made to insert historical and explanatory notes giving facts of interest concerning the organisation, the changes of relationship, and specialised services of different mission agencies.

Societies Appointing and Sending Out Missionaries have been entered according to their ecclesiastical affiliation. The entries by Churches have been inserted in alphabetical order, with the sub-entries under each Church in chronological order. In the case of the societies not in affiliation with any single denomination, whether listed as those Appointing and Sending Out Missionaries, or as Coöperating and Collecting Societies, the chronological, rather than the alphabetical, order of enrollment has been observed.

(Noth: The date of organisation of the American Friends' Board of Foreign Missions is 1894. The foreign mission work of the Friends, however, dates as far back as 1871, when the Indiana Yearly Meetings sat two missionaries to Mexico. Until 1902 the missions of the Friends of America were organised into fourteen distinct and independent bodies, or "Yearly Meetings," but in that year all of these, except the Ohio, Philadelphia, and Canada Yearly Meetings, came into organic union with the American Friends' Board of Foreign Missions. This central board now reports as a matter of information the missionary operations of all the Yearly Meetings of the denomination of Friends, but it does not indicate as within its own returns the mission work which is administered independently by any of these various Yearly Meetings.

make each follower of Christ faithful in extending His kingdom throughout the world.

Income: For administration expenses only.

Fields: Canada and the United States.

(Nors: All of the Movement's activities are under the direction of representatives of the mission boards of the United States and Canada. Each mission board cultivates its constituency, and secures the literature that it needs from the Movement. The Movement is a publishing house, selling its literature at wholesale to the mission boards, who, in turn, distribute it amongst the members of their denominations. Its summer conferences, and other field activities, are directed wholly to stimulate missionary education, and to train leaders for the various denominations.)

Fields: Those of the Societies aided by members of the Movement.

Fields: Those of the Societies aided by members of the Movement.

(Note: From the first the idea of the Laymen's Missionary Movement has been to coöperate with the regular missionary agencies of the Churches in the enlargement of their work. It does not divert missionary offerings from congregational or denominational channels, nor does it promote the organisation of separate men's missionary societies within the congregations. The Movement itself has no organisation apart from a General Committee, which meets twice a year, and an Executive Committee of twenty-one members, which meets every month. At least twelve denominational Laymen's Missionary Movements have already been organised. As a rule, these follow the practice of the general Movement and consist merely of a series of committees. Ten secretaries of denominational Movements have been secured. As the Movement is "an inspiration, not an administration," it has been chiefly occupied with the presentation of an adequate missionary policy to influential groups of men, and also with the exploitation of methods of missionary finance, which have produced the best results. The Movement stands for investigation, agitation, and organisation; the investigation by laymen of an adequate missionary boards in enlisting the whole Church in its supreme work of saving the world.)

Field: The world.

(Note: The Society was incorporated in 1899. Apart from its home work and its continental depots, the Society is the mainstay of the various tract societies in China, Japan, and India, through which it is producing Christian literature in great variety. It is assisting by way of grants in the production of literature of almost every type. It is also helping by way of grants in the production of literature by other societies or individuals. There is scarcely a mission field wholly untouched by its work. The societies and agencies associated with or helped by the Religious Tract Society are as follows: India—Bangalore Tract and Book Society, Basel Mission in Mangalore, Bombay Book and Tract Society, Calcutta Christian Tract and Book Society, Madras Religious Tract and Book Society, Madras Religious Tract and Book Society, Madras Religious Tract Society, South Travancore Book and Tract Society, Turkish Empire—American Press in Beirut; Chinese Empire—Chinese Tract Society in Shanghai, Hongkong Bible, Book, and Tract Depot, Central China Religious Tract Society, North Fukien Religious Tract Society, South Fukien Religious Tract Society, Manchurian Tract Committee; Japan—Japan Book and Tract Society, Many of these societies have an independent status, or are of such importance, because of the extent or type of the work carried on, that they are given directory or statistical entries of their own in this volume.)

BRITISH AND FOREIGN SAILORS' SOCIETY (1818).

Secretaries: Rev. Edward W. Matthews and the Rev. Alexander Jeffrey, Sailors' Palace, 680 Commercial Road, London, E.

Field: Amongst seamen ashore and afloat.
(Nore: There is a Ladies' Working Union which cooperates with The Missions to Seamen.)

ASSOCIATION FOR THE FREE DISTRIBUTION OF THE SCRIPTURES

(1874).

Honorary Secretary: Mrs. A. E. Pridham, 6 Cannon Place, Hampstead, London, N. W.

Object: To give the Word of God freely to those who are without it, and who would otherwise, either through ignorance, fanaticism, or poverty, never possess it.

Income: About £1,000. The bulk is expended amongst non-Christians, but the percentage varies each year.

Field: The world.

SOCIETY FOR THE SUPPRESSION OF THE OPIUM TRADE (1874).

Honorary Secretary: J. G. Alexander, Esq., LL.B.
Secretary: Rev. G. A. Wilson, 181 Queen Victoria St., London, E. C.
Object: The suppression of the opium trade between India and China, and the prohibition of the use of the drug for non-medicinal purposes throughout the British Empire.

Income: £800.
Organ: "Friend of China."
Fields: China, British Malaysia, India, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, Canada.

(Note: In addition, the following Associations for the Suppression of the Opium Traffic cooperate, working in harmony with the Society for the Suppression of the Opium

Trade:
1. Christian Union for the Severance of the Connection of the British Empire with the Opium Traffic. Honorary Secretary: Mr. B. Broomhall, 2 Pyrland Road, Mildmay Park, London, N.
2. Women's Anti-Opium Urgeney Committee. Honorary Secretary: Miss R. Braithwaite, 312 Camden Road, London, N.

INDIAN COMMITTEE OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION (LONDON)

(1876).

Secretary: Rev. Frank James, 3 Raul Road, Peckham, London, S. E.

Object: To aid Sunday School work amongst India's children, and to lead the children to Christ.

Income: £703.

Field: India.

(Note: The Indian Committee of the Sunday School Union provides the salary for the Secretary of the India Sunday School Union and his wife. Also, through a grant from the Arthington Trust, it sent out, in 1909, a missionary and his wife to work in South India under the India Sunday School Union. The grant increases the income to about £1,300.)

MEDICAL MISSIONARY ASSOCIATION, LONDON (1878).

Secretary: James L. Maxwell, M.A., M.D., 49 Highbury Park, London, N.

Object: To promote the spiritual welfare of medical students, and stimulate a deeper interest in medical missions; to aid suitable Christian men who desire to give themselves to medical mission work; to establish medical missions, either independently or in connection with other societies; and to diffuse information by lectures, meetings, etc., and especially by the publication of a medical missionary magazine.

Income: £1,449, of which £345 was for the Union Medical College at Peking.

Peking.

Fields: No independent medical mission has as yet been established by the Association. Specially designated gifts are received and forwarded to medical workers in various fields.

MINISTERING CHILDREN'S LEAGUE (1885).

Organising Secretary: Mrs. Arthur Philip, 83 Lancaster Gate, London, W. Object: To promote unselfishness amongst children, and to induce them to work for and to serve others.

Income: No report at hand.

Fields: Those of societies through which gifts are forwarded.

(Note: The Ministering Children's League is composed of branches all over the world.

Each branch manages its own finances, and gives to whatever good work it pleases.

Many of the English branches contribute largely to missions through the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, the Church Missionary Society, and other societies. American, Australian, Japanese, and other branches are also doing foreign mission work.)

SCRIPTURE GIFT MISSION (1888).

Secretary: Mr. Francis Charles Brading, 15 Strand, London, W. C.
Object: The publication and dissemination of the Scriptures by free gift and sale.

Income: £8,100 (£4,808 from sales).
Organ: "The Word of Life."
Field: The world.

(Note: The annual report of the Scripture Gift Mission shows a wide circulation of pictorial Testaments, Gospels, and portions, sent to missionaries and Christian workers throughout Great Britain, Continental Europe, North and South America, and most of the mission lands of the non-Christian world.)

ALL NATIONS MISSIONARY UNION, PENCE ASSOCIATION, AND IN-FORMATION BUREAU (1892).

Secretary: Mr. Robert H. Parsons, 33 Henrietta St., Covent Garden, London, W. C.

Object: To promote the work of evangelising the world, and to encourage systematic giving to the cause of missions.

Income: £2,400.

Organ: "All Nations."

Field: The world.

(Note: Societies, missions, and missionaries of all denominations have been aided by its funds, and also by the stimulus it has given to a practical, self-denying interest in the missions of the Churches. Over £40,000 has been collected. Pioneer missionaries have been sent out and supported in hitherto unoccupied fields. Over £7,500 has been raised for building leper asylums, and housing tainted and untainted children of lepers, and nearly £6,000 for Indian famine relief.)

STUDENT VOLUNTEER MISSIONARY UNION (1893).
Secretary: Rev. Tissington Tatlow, M.A., 93 Chancery Lane, London,

Secretary: Rev. Tissington Tatlow, M.A., 93 Chancery Lane, London, W.C.
Object: To lay before the students of the British Isles the claims of the foreign mission field as a sphere for a life work, and to enroll as members those who are willing to sign the Declaration, "It is my purpose, if God permit, to become a foreign missionary."
Income: £924.
Organ: "The Student Movement."
Fields: The universities and colleges of the British Isles.

(Norm: For a comprehensive statement concerning the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions, and allied organisations in various lands, see under United States. In Great Britain the Student Volunteer Missionary Union constitutes one section of the British College Christian Union. Up to March, 1909, the S. V. M. U. had enrolled 3,283 volunteers, of whom 1,385 had sailed, in connection with 45 different societies, while 1,201 were still in preparation. The Union also aids missions by promoting missionary study amongst students, who thus become supporters of missions.)

MISSIONARIES' LITERATURE ASSOCIATION (1894).

General Secretary: Mr. William Robert Dover, 7 Albany Court Yard, Piccadilly, London, W.

Object: To provide missionaries with useful periodicals; to establish libraries in mission stations; and to make grants of the Scriptures, tracts, sermons, books, etc., for free distribution.

Income: £30. The income of the Association is largely in the form of literature presented to be forwarded to the fields.

Organ: "The Missionary Quarterly."

Field: The world.

WORLD'S YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION (1894).

General Secretary: Miss Clarissa Spencer.

Corresponding Secretary: Miss Ethel Stevenson.

Office Address: 26 George St., Hanover Square, London, W.

Income: For the work in mission lands, £9,940 (see note below); for the upkeep of the International Office, including the General Secretary's tours, etc., £2,203.

Organ: "The World's Young Women's Christian Association Quarterly."

Fields: Japan, China, British Malaysia, India, Turkish Empire, North Africa (Egypt, Tunis), Western Africa (Gold Coast, Southern Nigeria), South Africa (Cape Colony, Natal, Transvaal), British East Africa, South America (Argentine Republic, Brazil). There is also work in most of the countries of Europe, in Australasia, in Canada, and in the United States.

(Note: The World's Young Women's Christian Association is primarily a federation.)

United States.

(Norn: The World's Young Women's Christian Association is primarily a federation of the various National Committees of the Young Women's Christian Association, together with Corresponding Members who represent countries in which the branches are not yet formed into national organisations. In non-Christian lands there are three of these National Committees, those of India, Burma, and Ceylon, of China, and of Japan. The Young Women's Christian Association work in these lands is under the immediate direction of the National Committees. The foreign secretaries sent out to non-Christian lands are supported by their several home National Committees, and are recorded as secretaries of those committees. The only work for non-Christians which is under the immediate direction of the World's Committee is that in countries which have no foreign secretaries and no National Committees. Nearly all of such work is amongst college students. The income for foreign work of the World's Young Women's Christian Association represents, for the most part, the sum of gifts reported by the various National Committees which send secretaries to mission lands. In entering the statistics of Young Women's Christian Association work in this volume, European or North American secretaries are credited to their home supporting constituencies, and all other data in each case are entered under the National Committee of the particular mission field. In the Turkish Empire no foreign secretaries are readient, nor is there a National Committee, so all work is credited to the World's Young Women's Christian Association, which has supervision.)

(Norgan The Danish Luthers State Church under the patronage of King Frederick IV.

Fields: Chinese Empire (Manchuria), India.

(Norg: The Danish Lutheran State Church, under the patronage of King Frederick IV, and by his express orders, established, at the opening of the eighteenth century, a missionary organisation, subsequently controlled by a Mission-Collegium, located at Copenhagen. Its prospectus has been named "Pharus Missionis Evangelicae," from the opening words of its title; and in fulfillment of its purpose the missionaries Ziegenbalg and Plutschau were sent to Tranquebar, India, in 1705, where they opened the Tamil Mission. As many of the workers, as well as the administrative care of the Mission, came from Halle, Germany, it was named the "Danish-Halle Mission," but towards the close of the century this organisation was gradually absorbed by other societies, chiefly the Leipzig Lutheran Missionary Society. The Danish Mission Church in Greenland has grown out of a mission established in Greenland by the Danish State Church early in the eighteenth century, when Hans Egede settled there. It subsequently grew to be the Lutheran Church of Greenland, served by Danish clergy, and also by native ministers, most of whom were educated and ordained at Copenhagen. In 1899 the Moravian Missionary Society, whose work in Greenland also dates from the early part of the eighteenth century, transferred its mission stations there to the care of the Danish Lutheran Church in that country. The Church of Greenland has the distinction of being the earliest independent mission Church which has resulted from the modern missionary movement. The entire west coast of Greenland though the united labours for nearly two hundred years of the Danish Lutherans and the Moravians, has become professedly Christian, and good progress has also been made towards the evangelisation of the east coast.)

WORLD'S COMMITTEE OF YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS

General Secretary: Mr. Charles Fermaud, Rue Général-Dufour 3, Geneva, Switzerland.

Object: To unite the Young Men's Christian Associations of all lands, chiefly through the various National and International Committees, and to promote the spiritual, intellectual, social, and physical welfare of young men.

(Note: The World's Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations does not send out Association secretaries to work as missionaries among non-Christian peoples. The foreign secretaries in non-Christian lands are appointed and supported by the various national committees, whose secretaries they remain. The home committees, however, place these secretaries at the disposal of the national committees or local Young Men's Christian Associations on the field. These Committees and Associations become responsible for the development of the work in the local cities as well as of the national work as a whole. The World's Committee unifies and stimulates all these activities throughout the world, through the arranging of conventions, the distribution of literature, the gathering and circulation of statistics, and by correspondence. In entering the statistics of Young Men's Christian Association work in this volume, European and North American secretaries are credited to their home supporting constituencies, and all other data in each non-Christian country where there are missionary statistics are entered under the national committee of that country. The total of Young Men's Christian Associations in all non-Christian lands, September, 1908, was 350, with a membership of 24,211.)

SOUTH AFRICA CHURCH MISSIONARY ASSOCIATION (1895).

Secretary: Rev. A. Daintree, M.A., St. Peter's Rectory, Mowbray, Cape Colony.

Object: To support a number of missionaries of the Church Missionary Society as

"own missionaries."

Income: £1,443.

Fields: Those of the Church Missionary Society.

(Note: In 1895 several parishes in Cape Colony which contributed to the Church

Missionary Society formed themselves into a South African Association. The Missionary Society formed themselves into a South Missionary Society

Association is responsible for the support of fourteen Church Missionary Society missionaries, in the same way as parishes or unions in the United Kingdom maintain "own missionaries." Candidates for missionary service are sent to England for training and acceptance. There is a Gleaners' Union in connection with this Association.)

CHURCH OF THE PROVINCE OF SOUTH AFRICA (1870).

(Nore: The first Provincial Synod of the Church of South Africa was convened by the Metropolitan Bishop of Capetown, Dr. Gray, in the year 1870. There were then only five dioceses in the Province of South Africa, which have now been increased to ten. These dioceses all engage, some of them to a large extent, in missionary operations. A considerable proportion, in some instances much the largest share, of the funds devoted to missionary purposes is raised locally, but it is supplemented to a considerable extent by grants from the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, the Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge, and the Colonial and Continental Church Society. For educational purposes colonial grants are also made. In some instances, also, aid is contributed by special associations in Great Britain, the object of which is to render assistance to the missionary work of the Church of South Africa. The following ten dioceses, arranged in chronological order, are identified with the Church of the Province of South Africa.)

DIOCESE OF CAPETOWN (1847).

Archbishop of Capetown: Most Rev. William Marlborough Carter, D.D., Bishopscourt, Capetown, Cape Colony.

Coadjutor Bishop: Rt. Rev. William Mouat Cameron, D.D., Capetown, Cape Colony.

Object: Foreign and colonial missions in the Diocese of Capetown.

Income. £46,325. This represents the income of the Diocese from all sources. No definite statement is at hand as to what proportion of this amount is expended for missionary purposes.

Organ: "The Cape Church Monthly."
Field: South Africa (Western Division of Cape Colony).

(Note: The Association in Aid of the Diocese of Capetown [see English Section] contributes toward the support of this Diocese, through the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.)

DIOCESE OF GRAHAMSTOWN (1853).

Bishop of Diocese: Rt. Rev. Charles Edward Cornish, D.D., Bishopsbourne, Grahamstown, Cape Colony.

Object: Colonial and foreign missions in the Diocese of Grahamstown.

Income: £32,748. The work of the Diocese is largely missionary.

Organ: "Grahamstown Occasional Paper."

Field: South Africa (Eastern division of Cape Colony).

(Now: The Grahamstown Association in England for Facility Section side in the (Note: The Grahamstown Association in England [see English Section] aids in the work of this Diocese, and the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel and the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge also contribute largely. In the Native Reserves the clergy devote themselves almost exclusively to the conversion of the heathen, and the building up of a native Church. Educational work, both for natives and Europeans, is a prominent feature of the Diocese.)

natives and Europeans, is a prominent feature of the Diocese.)

Bishop of Diocese: Rt. Rev. Frederick Samuel Baines, D.D., Bishop's House, Maritzburg, Natal.

Superintendent of Native Missions: Canon Ernest Travers Burges, M.A., Bruton, Lidgetton, Natal.

Superintendent of Indian Missions: Canon Arthur Halsted Smith, B.A., Maritzburg, Natal.

Object: Missionary work in the Diocese of Natal. Much attention is given to missions among the natives and Indians in that Diocese.

Income: £18,643. More than half of this amount is raised locally.

Organ: "Church News from Natal."

Field: Natal (not including Zululand).

(Norn: The Maritzburg Mission Association in England [see English Section] contributes to the support of the Diocese, as does also the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel. The Diocese of Natal is remarkable for its large Indian population, and special missions have been organised for work among the people. St. Aidan's Indian Mission, at Durban, under the charge of the Rev. Arthur French, is the centre of these efforts.)

DIOCESE OF ST. HELENA (1859).

Bishop of the Diocese: Rt. Rev. William Arthur Holbech, D.D., Bishopsholme, Island of St. Helena, South Atlantic.

Object: Missions in the islands of St. Helena, Ascension, and Tristan da Cunha.

Income: £585 from sources in England, and £300 from the foreign field; total, £885.

Fields: The islands of St. Helena, Ascension, and Tristan da Cunha, in the South Atlantic Ocean.

(Note: Assisted by grants from the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and contributions raised by a Diocesan Finance Board in England, of which the Ven. Archdeacon Elwes, Woolbeding Rectory, Midhurst, is the Bishop's Commissary.)

Archdeacon Elwes, Woolbeding Rectory, Midhurst, is the Bishop's Commissary.)

DIOCESE OF BLOEMFONTEIN (1863).

Bishop of Diocese: Rt. Rev. Arthur Chandler, D.D., Bloemfontein, Orange Free State.

Object: Missions in Basutoland, British Bechuanaland, West Griqualand, and Orange Free State.

Income: £4,510.

Organ: "Bloemfontein Quarterly Paper."

Field: South Africa (Basutoland, Orange Free State, together with West Griqualand and British Bechuanaland in Cape Colony).

(Note: The missions to natives are largely assisted by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and there is an Association in England which sends contributions, of which the Commissaries are the Rev. V. S. S. Coles, Pusey House, Oxford, and the Rev. R. Hudson, St. Mark's College, Chelsea.)

the Rev. R. Hudson, St. Mark's College, Chelsea.)

DIOCESE OF ZULULAND (1870).

Bishop of Diocese: Rt. Rev. Wilmot Lushington Vyvyan, D.D., Isandhlwana, St. Augustine's Post Office, Zululand.

Object: To minister to the English colonists, and to evangelise the native population.

Income: £7,511. Of this amount £4,538 is received from England, and £2,973 from local sources.

Organ: "The Net."

Field: South Africa (Zululand, Tongaland, Swaziland, Vryheid, and a portion of the Transvaal).

(Note: The mission work of the Church of England began in Zululand in 1860, and the Diocese of Zululand was formed in 1870 as a Memorial to Bishop Mackenzie. There is a Zululand Missionary Association in England [see English Section] which raises funds for the Diocese.)

DIOCESE OF ST. JOHN'S, KAFFRARIA (1873).

Bishop of Diocese: Rt. Rev. Joseph Watkin Williams, D.D., Bishopsmead, Umtata, Kaffraria, Cape Colony.

Object: Missions to colonists and natives in the Diocese.

Income: £14,560. Of this income £8,402 is reported as contributed locally in the Diocese, £1,200 is from the Foreign Mission Board of the Episcopal Church of Scotland, £4,046 is from the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and £912 from the St. John's Missionary Association in England.

Organ: "Kaffrarian Diocesan Quarterly."

Field: South Africa (Diocese of St. John's, Kaffraria, in Cape Colony).

(Note: The work of the Diocese is largely missionary, among the Hottentots and Griquas, and much attention is given to educational institutions for the training of native clergy, catechists, and teachers. There is also medical missionary work. The Diocese is supported by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, the Scottish Episcopal Church, the St. John's, Kaffraria, Missionary Association [see English Section], and by generous contributions raised within the Diocese.)

DIOCESE OF PRETORIA (1878).

Bishop of Diocese: Rt. Rev. Michael Bolton Furse, M.A., Pretoria, Transvaal.

Object: Missions among colonists and natives in the Transvaal.

Income: £36,645. Of this amount £6,810 was received for missionary purposes, being £2,180 from England, and £4,630 from local sources.

Field: South Africa (Transvaal).

(Note: The Diocese of Pretoria receives an annual grant from the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel. There is an immense opening for missionary work among the native people in all parts of the Diocese. The first Bishop of Pretoria was consecrated in 1878, but owing to the Zulu War, which was followed immediately by the first Boer War, the practical opening of the Diocese, at least in its missionary work, was delayed until 1883.)

DIOCESE OF MASHONALAND (1891).

Bishop of Diocese: Rt. Rev. Edmund Nathanael Powell, D.D., Salisbury, Rhodesia.

Object: Missions, chiefly among the native population of the Diocese.

Income: £4,627. Of this amount £1,550 was a grant from the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and £1,320 from the Mashonaland Association, in England.

Organ: "Mashonaland."

Fields: Southern Central Africa and East Africa (parts of Bechuanaland Protectorate, Southern Rhodesia, and Portuguese East Africa).

(Note: The Mashonaland Association in England raises funds in aid of the missions of the Diocese of Mashonaland, for account of which see English Section.)

DIOCESE OF LEBOMBO (1893).
Bishop of Diocese: Rt. Rev. William Edmund Smyth, M.A., M.B., Box 120, Lorenzo Marques, South-east Africa.
Object: The planting and development of the Church in the district between the Indian Ocean and the Lebombo Mountains, and the border of Zululand and the Sabi River.
Income: £3,000.
Organs: "Lebombo Leaves" (Quarterly Paper) and "South African News." Field: Portuguese East Africa.
(Nore: The Lebombo Mission Association in England [see English Section] raises funds in aid of the missions of the Diocese of Lebombo, and a grant is also received from the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.)

CONGREGATIONAL:

CONGREGATIONAL UNION, CHURCH AID, AND MISSIONARY SOCIETY
OF SOUTH AFRICA (1877).

Africa.

Income: £1,150. Of this amount £671 was raised locally, £85 was a grant from the London Missionary Society, and £394 was a grant from the Colonial Missionary Society.

Organ: "The Congregational Magazine."

Field: South Africa (Cape Colony, Transvaal).

(Note: The Congregational Union has in connection with it a considerable number of churches of coloured people, originally connected with the London Missionary Society, many of which are helped by grants-in-aid for the maintenance of their European ministers.)

METHODIST:

South African Missionary Society (1886).

Secretary: Rev. James Robb, Verulam, Natal.

Object: The sustentation and extension of church work amongst the English, coloured, native, and Indian peoples in South Africa.

Income: Total income from all sources, £100,760. From English subscribers in South Africa, £4,521. Subtract amount appropriated for English work, £1,876, leaving balance for native work, etc., £2,645.

From native subscribers, £21. Given by native, coloured, and Indian members and adherents in support of their own church organisations, £23,265. Given by native, coloured, and Indian members and adherents for the erection and maintenance of churches, schools, and other buildings, £10,276. Given by native, coloured, and Indian members and adherents in aid of Sunday Schools, £214. Contributed by native, coloured, and Indian members and adherents for miscellaneous purposes, £997. Paid by natives, etc., in school fees, £16,584. Paid by natives in industrial institutional fees, £9,320. Total, £69,073. Government grants to institutions and day schools, £31,687. Organ: "The Methodist Churchman."

Field: South Africa (Cape Colony, Natal, Orange Free State).

(Note: This Society is in connection with the Wesleyan Methodist Church of South Africa, Missionary work was begun in South Africa in 1814. The Wesleyan Churches in South Africa were formed into an affiliated Conference in 1883. The South Africa missionary Society was constituted in 1886. There are Wesley Guilds in connection with this Society. Wesleyan Methodist missionary Society of Great Britain, and not with the South African organisation.)

PRESBYTERIAN:

MISSIONARY COMMITTEE OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF SOUTH AFRICA (1897).

Object: Evangelisation of native races in South Africa.
Income: £2,405.
Organ: "The Churchman."
Fields: South Africa (Cape Colony), Natal, Orange Free State, Transvaal), Southern Central Africa (Rhodesia).
(Note: The Presbyterian Church of South Africa was constituted in 1897, by a union of all the Churches of Presbyterian faith and polity in South Africa. A Missionary Committee was formed soon afterward, having in view work for both white colonists and natives. The principal native missions supported by the Presbyterian Church of South Africa are situated in the Transvaal and Rhodesia. Other native mission associated with the above Church, but financially supported by the United Free Church of Scotland, are located in Cape Colony (Kaffraria). There is a Women's Association auxiliary to the Missionary Committee of the Presbyterian Church of South Africa, the total receipts of which amount to £29, and are included in the income mentioned above.)

(Norz: The Dutch Reformed Church of South Africa officially entered upon mission work in 1824, in connection with the establishment of its first Synod. Its foreign mission work, that is, missions outside the bounds of Cape Colony, was organised in 1857. The following explanatory statements are made on the basis of information kindly forwarded by the Rev. J. du Plessis, B.D. The Synod of Cape Colony is known as the Dutch Reformed Church of South Africa. Its missionary operations are directed through a General Mission Committee working by means of three Sub-Committees, that for Home Missions, that is, for coloured people within Cape Colony, for Foreign Missions south of the Zambezi River, and for Foreign Missions north of the Zambezi River, in Nyasaland. There are three auxiliaries, the Women's Missionary Union, the Men's Missionary Union, otherwise known as the Laymen's Movement, and, lastly, the Children's Missionary Committee for Foreign Missions which functions with reference to the Nyasaland field. The auxiliaries are the same as those for the Synod directs its missionary operations through the Synodical Committee for Home Missions, which provides for the native races within the Orange Free State, and a Synodical Mission Committee for Foreign Missions which functions with reference to the Ny

Income: $600 from the United States of America, England, and Egypt. Used for supporting the home. Tithe of $600 used to help the poor, in house-to-house visiting amongst the Mohammedans. Deficit made up by giving private lessons to rich Mohammedan girls, thus getting them also under the "home" influence.

Field: North-east Africa (Egypt).

(Note: There is an American Board of Trustees for the Bethel Orphanage, which gives advice and collects funds for the Mission.)

SOCIETIES IN ASIA

(Note: The miscellaneous character of the societies which are engaged in missionary work on the Continent of Asia, and the incompleteness of the data available, make it undesirable to attempt the classification which has been adopted in previous sections of the Directory. They are therefore arranged in chronological order, the geographical divisions being named in alphabetical succession. There are a number of small missions in various parts of Asia, concerning which definite information has not been obtainable. Most of these smaller unconnected missions were solicited for statistical returns and for data for the Directory. In many cases no replies were received, or the returns were unsatisfactory. Where available returns were received, these have been presented.)

Secretary: Rev. G. M. Wales, Amoy, China.

Object: The publication and circulation of books and tracts, prepared on the same principles as those of the Religious Tract Society of London, and the American Tract Society.

Income: For 1908, $3,030 (Mexican), equivalent to about $1,515 (U. S. gold)

Income: For 1908, $3,030 (sterrical), equivalent gold).

Organ: "The Church Messenger."

Field: China (South Fukien).

(Note: For many years previous to 1908 tract society work was carried on in this district by the Religious Tract Society of London, through a local committee, and by the American Tract Society, through the American Reformed Church Mission. In 1908 the whole work was united in the South Fukien Religious Tract Society. The Amoy Tract Society, which dated from 1850, has been merged into the South Fukien Tract Society. During the year 1908, 74,318 books and tracts were printed. Included in this number are four editions of a New Union Hymnbook, with a total of 15,000 copies.)

HWA HSI HSIOH TANG [WEST CHINA UNION UNIVERSITY] (1909).
Acting Secretary on the Field: Rev. C. R. Carscallen, Cheng-tu-fu, West

Acting Secretary for Home Commission: Mr. G. B. Huntington, American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, Boston, Massachusetts. Object: The higher education of Chinese men and women, under Christian auspices.

Income: Derived from appropriations from the missionary societies uniting in the Union; American Baptist Foreign Mission Society, Boston; Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, Canada; English Friends' Foreign Mission Association, London; Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, New York. No amount stated.

Field: China (Cheng-tu-fu, and other points in West China, Province of Sze-chwan, where associated colleges may be located).

(Nors: The University comprises four colleges—American Baptist, Canadian Methodist, English Friends, and Methodist Episcopal. It will also have three theological schools affiliated in the near future, and include normal school and medical college. This enterprise has been fostered by the Christian Educational Union of West China, previously entered.)

UNIVERSITY OF NANKING (1909).

(Note: This union of higher educational activities in Nanking was accomplished in December, 1909. A Board of Trustees, with headquarters in the United States, has been appointed, and articles of incorporation are to be obtained. See entry under the United States in this Directory.)

MISSIONARY ASSOCIATIONS IN CHINA.

(Note: The missionaries residing in different parts of China have, in many instances, organised themselves into associations for mutual helpfulness and general discussion of their difficulties and problems, and to insure united action and harmonious views concerning missionary policy. It has not seemed advisable to give a separate entry in the Directory to each of these missionary associations, as they are not, strictly speaking, missionary in their aims, but are designed rather for mutual support and guidance, and the devotional culture of the missionaries themselves. It will suffice for present purposes if this brief reference is made to their existence. These missionary associations are to be found at Peking, Tientsin, Shanghai, Nanking, Hankow (which represents the missionaries of Wuchang, Hanyang, and Hankow), Foochow, and Hongkong. It is possible that others may exist of which information has not been obtained.)

MISSIONARY ASSOCIATIONS OR CONFERENCES IN INDIA.

(Note: The missionaries residing in different parts of India have, in many instances, organised themselves into associations, or conferences, for mutual helpfulness, and the general discussion of their difficulties and problems, and to insure united action and harmonious views concerning missionary policy. It has not seemed advisable to give a separate entry in the Directory to each of these associations, as they are not, strictly speaking, missionary in their aims, but are designed rather for mutual support and guidance, and the devotional culture of the missionaries themselves. It will suffice for present purposes if this brief reference is made to their existence. These missionary associations, or conferences, have been formed at Calcutta. Bombay, Lucknow, Agra, Madras, and several other cities in India, and there are also the South Indian Missionary Association and the Mid-India Missionary Association.)

SUMMARY STATEMENT OF SOCIETIES AND CONTRIBUTIONS

No Society has been listed which is not either wholly or in part actively and directly engaged in, or clearly related to, work for non-Christians. The same recognition of the official scope of the Conference has governed in the selection of that proportion of the total income of each Society which represents work only for the non-Christian class in mission lands. This proportion has been clearly stated by most of the Societies, but in several instances it was necessary to form an approximate estimate based upon information from the Society's office or found in its printed reports. Care has been taken not to enter the income of Auxiliary, Cooperating or Collecting Societies wherever it is clearly stated or seems probable that it is included in the statement of income given by the main Society which it aids financially. On the other hand, when Committees or Associations in Christendom raise money for the support of indigenous Societies in Africa or Asia, such funds are as a rule credited to the source from which they emanate, except where they come from various countries and it is impossible to distribute them for the reason that they are acknowledged only where they are received. In such cases they are credited to the Society and country acknowledging their receipt. The effort of the Committee has been to record only funds dedicated to work among non-Christians and to avoid all duplication.

STATISTICS OF MISSIONS AMONGST NON-CHRISTIANS

EXPLANATORY NOTES

The plan followed in these tables is to record the statistics of missionary operations in each country, enumerating the societies engaged therein, and the results of their work, so far as pertains to that country only. The totals reveal the status of missions as conducted in that particular field. The statistics of the various mission lands are thus presented in succession in this tabulated form, and the various phases of operations-whether General and Evangelistic, Educational, Medical, Philanthropic and Reformatory, or pertaining to Mission Presses and Bible distribution—are recorded in tables dealing with each of these departments. Special and separate tables are devoted to missions amongst Jews, and also to missions of the Roman Catholic and Russian Orthodox Churches.

As has been intimated in the Preface, and in the Explanatory Notes to the Directory, the plan and scope of the Conference, as having exclusive reference to missions to non-Christians, has been a governing factor in the collation of statistical data. In the case of Persia, the Turkish Empire (including Syria and Palestine), North-east Africa, and the Philippine Islands, statistics of the Christian community, including baptised converts and Church members, are omitted, as in those fields the missions recruit Church membership, in large part, from amongst the ancient Oriental, or the Roman Catholic, or the Greek Churches. The mission staff, however, and all institutional work as embodied in educational, medical, philanthropic, and publishing departments, are recorded, as indicating the agencies and forces which are influencing, and in a measure are directed to effect the ultimate conversion of the non-Christian populations. In harmony with this governing principle of the Conference, societies having mission operations in Roman Catholic lands, as Mexico, Central and South America, or in Christian countries, as Canada and the United States, will find their statistical data limited to work amongst non-Christian aborigines and Asiatic immigrants.

It will be noticed that in the column set apart for "Principal Stations" there is an inevitable duplication in the list given for each country, since different societies often occupy the same station, and each society represented in that station reports it. The totals of "Principal Stations" should, therefore, be reduced, and this has been done in the final summaries on the basis of the Station Index. A column for "Baptised Chrishas been inserted in the General and Evangelistic Tables, since the missionary societies of the Continent of Europe regard this entry as a very important and decisive indication of the progress of missionary work. On the other hand, many American and British societies do not record this class as separated from communicants. Accordingly, the returns under this heading have not been available in not a few cases. instances the number of communicants has been inserted, as indicating In the case of missionaries those who without doubt have been baptised. whose ecclesiastical affiliation is with bodies which do not offer ordination, they are nevertheless usually entered as ordained, rather than as lay mis sionaries, where their services and status place them among the ordained, rather than among the lay workers. Moreover entries have been made under "Communicants" and "Baptised Christians" in a few cases where these rubrics are not entirely appropriate, owing to the attitude of the bodies concerned toward these ordinances. These entries, however, seemed to be the only way to give certain societies full credit for the results of their labours.

The column entitled "Native Christian Community" can only be given as approximately accurate. In some regions, owing to the rigidity of social conditions, and the opposition of political or religious forces, the Christian community consists of few except those avowedly and formally related to the Christian nucleus. In other regions the influence of the Gospel has been so far-reaching that the number of adherents must include a multitude of family groups, and even whole communities. In soliciting statistics the Committee asked the societies to provide estimates of their Christian constituency for this column, and wherever a society has supplied these figures they have been entered. When a society has not provided such data an estimate has been entered based on the best sources available. In most instances every communicant has been regarded as standing for three additional members of a Christian, as distinguished from a non-Christian, community, including adults and children.

It is evident that mission lands may have many Christian adherents in addition to those who would be reported by missionary societies as baptised, or as communicant members. In some cases considerable bodies of Christians, the fruit of missionary effort in the past, have passed from the direct supervision of the societies which started, and for many years conducted, work among them. Such, for instance, are the Hawaiian Islanders, the Eskimos of Greenland, the constituency of the Reformed Church of the Dutch East Indies, and the so-called Ethiopian Movement in South Africa. It is a singular fact in connection with statistics of missions that as the work of missionary societies comes to an end in particular regions, these societies cease to be primary sources of information as to the extent and scope of the Christian community in the regions they formerly occupied. The statistics given herewith indicate, as a rule, only the present constituencies of societies reported.

The result of investigations into the entire fruitage of Christian missions among non-Christians, represented in Christians now living throughout the world, including the Negroes of the United States, the West Indies, and South Africa, and the State Church of the Dutch East Indies, all or a large part of whom have been Christianised, indicates a present Christian population of non-Christian origin, other than that of the Roman Catholic Church and the various Eastern Churches, scattered over the world, of over twelve millions. Dr. Gustav Warneck, the distinguished authority on missions, in the 1910 edition of his History of Protestant Missions, states the number as 12,658,300. If to this be added the results of Roman Catholic and Russian Orthodox Missions among non-Christians, according to the same authority, an addition of 5,711,100 may be counted, making the total fruitage of modern Christian missions from amongst non-Christians, approximately 18,369,400.1

The Committee is of the opinion, on the basis of its own compilation gathered from later sources, and recorded in this volume, that Dr. Warneck's figures should be supplemented by possibly 2,500,000, thus estimating, according to a conservative approximation, the total fruitage of the Christian Missions of the past century, represented by living converts Christianised from non-Christian peoples, as approaching 21,000,000.

Excepting in a few instances where the women's societies are entirely independent in administration, or in respect to some particular phase of service or field of work, the statistics of such societies have been included in the returns of the principal societies with which they are connected as auxiliaries. The status and financial relationship of each society, where these have been ascertained, are indicated in the Directory.

In the educational statistics an earnest attempt has been made to indicate the number of students legitimately entitled to be entered as of college grade. Special letters were sent to every missionary institution throughout the world whose name seemed to indicate that it was in the rank of colleges. More than four-fifths of the institutions have responded, in each case giving a classification of its enrollment. In the statistical tables, therefore, the enrollment entries under the head of Universities and Colleges indicate only students of college grade. Where an institution enrolls students of both college and high school grades, or, as in some cases, pupils of primary grade in addition, credit has been given in each case, in the proper columns, for the pupils of lower grade. Thus, if an institution enrolled 20 students of college grade, 75 pupils of high school grade, and 100 pupils of primary grade, it has been credited as a college, a high school, and a primary school, with its enrollment in each grade.

Painstaking efforts have been made to verify and complete the statistics of the medical returns in each country. Mission hospitals and dispensaries have been written to in all the mission fields, to obtain supplementary data, where the information from the home offices has been insufficient. The same statement is true of the returns of philanthropic and reformatory

In almost every instance the data concerning Mission Presses have been received direct from the fields, but the method of reporting has been so varied and entangling, and in many important items the information desired has so often been only partially furnished, or omitted altogether, that it has proved impossible to classify and reduce the returns to any satisfactory systematic tabulation. All that, under the circumstances, seemed practicable, in the limited time available before the date of the Conference, was to record a list of the presses in mission fields, giving location, and indicating their status, whether in connection with some society, or independently conducted. As regards the literary output of publishing houses, tract societies, and other distributing agencies of Christian literature, facts and statistics, so far as available, will be found in the Directory, wherever societies representing literary activities are entered.

The statistics of Missions to the Jews were prepared for the Committee by the Rev. Louis Meyer, who has given special attention to this department of missionary activity.

As it has not been possible in every case to indicate the sex of pupils, the total summation of the columns for male and female pupils in each class of institutions does not necessarily equal the total of extractional experience of the columns for male and female pupils in each class of institutions does not necessarily equal the total of extractional extractions.

a Physicians who are ordained are entered in both columns 2 and 3. Accordingly, the total of missionaries does not necessarily equal the total of columns 2 to 7.

a Physicians who are ordained are entered in both columns 2 and 3. Accordingly, the total of missionaries does not necessarily equal the total of columns 2 to 7.

b Owing to inevitable duplication in the enumeration of stations by the various societies, the totals in column 12 in the succeeding tables are in excess of the total number of cities occupied. In this table of summaries, duplicate stations are eliminated.

Stations in which no other than work for Jews is conducted.

at its evident that all Jewish converts are not reported by the societies engaged especially in missions to Hebrews. The probable explanation is that many Jewish converts prefer to unite themselves bermanently with Christian churches, thus severing themselves from the roll of the society, and entering the communicant list of regularly established churches. The number of communicants reported as added during the last year seems large in comparison with the total number of baptised Christians recorded, but the explanation already given would account in a measure also for this apparent discrepancy.

KOREA

- a As there is no record of baptized children available, the total of communicants and of baptized Christians is identical.
 b Statistics provided by the Rev. J. S. Gale, D.D., of Korea.
 The Foreign Staff of the British and Foreign Bible Society in Korea supervise the work of the American Bible Society and of the National Bible Society of Scotland.
 d Work in connection with the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

^{*} Estimate. Except in column 18, all estimates are from the societies.

† Physicians who are ordained are entered in both columns 2 and 3. Accordingly, the total of missionaries does not necessarily equal the total of columns 2 to 7.

† Owing to inevitable duplication in the enumeration of stations by the various societies, the totals in column 12 are in excess of the total number of cities occupied.

In the tables of summaries on another bage, duplicates are eliminated.

* No record of baptisms other than communicants.

b Includes data for the Baptist Zenana Missionary Society.
Not reported.
d Colporteurs under the immediate supervision of the Bible Society.
e Sales depots.
f Net increase.
Includes data for Women's Society.
b Data for this mission was not obtained directly, as its name was not received until too late to solicit information from Ceylon.

* Estimate. Except in column 18, all estimates are from the societies.
† Physicians who are ordained are entered in both columns 2 and 3. Accordingly, the total of missionaries does not necessarily equal the total of columns 2 to 7.
‡ Owing to inevitable duplication in the enumeration of stations by the various societies, the totals in column 12 are in excess of the total number of cities occupied. In the tables of summaries on another page, duplicates are eliminated.

E Church of England work in British South Africa is supported in part by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, in part by special Associations in England not reporting through the Society for Propagation of the Gospel, and in part by funds raised locally. It is therefore reported by dioceses. The data in several instances is unsalisfactory, as there was no means of dividing with accuracy between work for whites and that for the non-Christian races. Full statistics were received from the dioceses of Pretoria and Zululand, for educational work in the diocese of Natal, and for work in Basutoland in the diocese of Bloemfontein. Only that portion of the diocese of Bloemfontein which is within the British South Africa section is reported under that diocese.

I Includes both men and women.

^a Data for 1908-1909. ^b Reports received from only seven missions.

The General Assembly's College and Duff College were amalgamated in 1908, subsequent to the date of these statistics.
 This society reports 3,992 Zenana pupils not recorded under schools.

As it has not been possible in every case to indicate the sex of the pupils, the total summation of the columns for male and female pupils in each class of institutions does not necessarily equal the total of students reported in that same class.

MADAGASCAR AND MAURITIUS

MISSION PRESSES

(Note: It was the purpose of the Committee to tabulate the work of Mission Presses, and to give in detail the data of their output, as representing the extensive and monumental service of missionaries in the literary sphere of mission activities. The impossibility of doing proper justice to this department of missionary endeavour was at last regretfully recognised, owing to the fragmentary and dissimilar character of the returns, so varied in significance that systematic tabulation was impossible. In the case of societies engaged especially in literary production, and entered in the Directory, the data of their service in this department are given, so far as available. The following list of Mission Presses, many of which are representative of large and important literary activities, serves in itself to demonstrate to some extent the import and value of this powerful Christian ministry to the mind and heart of the non-Christian world).

ROMAN CATHOLIC MISSIONS AMONGST NON-CHRISTIANS

The following tables present the statistics of Roman Catholic mission work for non-Christian peoples. They are condensed from the fuller tables found in H. A. Krose's "Katholische Missionsstatistik," 1908.

The condensation consists in giving the totals of all the work of a given Order or Congregation labouring in any field, as China, instead of reproducing the figures for the various Vicariates and Prefectures of that country. Certain omissions also occur in order to make the statistics conform to the rules obtaining in the case of Protestant missions. Thus no evangelistic data of the important work of this Church in Latin America and the United States are given, except as they have to do with Indians; and in the Turkish Empire and Egypt the same reason has led to the exclusion of the figures relating to missions among the Oriental, Coptic, and Greek Churches. In the Philippine Islands Krose gives only the number of Catholics, 6,860,042, and that of the priests, 7,100, other statistics being omitted. In those countries where Europeans and persons of European descent are a considerable part of the constituency and their numbers were given, these, also, have been subtracted in order to conform to the general rule in this respect. Marks of interrogation are reproduced from the tables, though in the original tables, where these marks appear in a column along with definite figures, totals are omitted, while they are given in ours.

There is frequent confusion in the matter of crediting work to a given Order. This is due to the fact that in the German original, in not a few cases, the Orders appearing together in a combined work are not credited each with its particular share in the totals, but all the items are totalled for the Orders labouring unitedly. The original tables are thus reproduced with an element of uncertainty as to what a given Order is doing, though the totals contain all that they report as a combined force. It should further be stated that Krose does not in the tables make it clear as to the countries or seminaries whence the Orders and Congregations came or by whom they are supported in all cases, as do some other Roman authorities. Thus the simple entry "Jesuits" does not inform the reader whether these Jesuits are French, Belgian, Italian, or German, a distinction akin to Protestant variations of Presbyterian societies—the Presbyterian Board of Canada, the English Presbyterian Board, etc., for example.

In two particulars the tables have been departed from. The columns headed "Pupils in lower schools" and "Pupils in middle schools" in the original have the common heading "Schüler und Schülerinnen," and under it the two subdivisions, "Gesamtzahl" and "Davon in Mittelschulen." While it is not certain how the total is made up, it is assumed that it contains the number in lower schools and in middle schools; hence the latter number has been subtracted from the total and the remainder has been placed in the column headed "Pupils in lower schools." The other departure is in the columns headed "European Priests" and "Native Priests." In the German tables the first column gives the total number of priests, and the second column states how many of the entire number are native born. As the tables now stand, the number indicating the native priests is subtracted from the total number and the remainder is entered as "European Priests."

The sources of Krose's tables are various and also of differing dates, not always designated. In general it may be said that the material comes from authoritative sources of recent date, perhaps averaging a year earlier than those in the Protestant tables. Whatever the defects may be, it is probable that Krose's statistics are more nearly up to the standard aimed at by Protestant missionary statisticians than any similar collection heretofore published. The compilers express their great obligation to this painstaking statistician of Catholic missions.

MISSIONS OF THE RUSSIAN ORTHODOX CHURCH TO NON-CHRISTIANS

[The information received was of such a character that it could be presented only in paragraph form.]

The Russian Missionary Society of the Orthodox Church to non-Christians is divided as follows:

- 1. Nine Siberian Missions: Altaiskaya, Kirgiskaya, Krasnoyarskaya, Tobolskaya, Yakoutskaya, Irkoutskaya, Zabaikalkskaya, Vladivostokskaya, and Blagoveschenskaya.
- 2. Several Missionary Institutions, chiefly schools, in 16 dioceses in Euro-Pean Russia, with foreign population.
- 3. Two Foreign Missions, one to Japan and the other to North America. The Society has 400 missionaries in 126 districts, and 700 schools, with 1,900 pupils.

The following reports of the different missions are for the year 1908:

Altaiskaya Mission. It consists of 23 districts, containing 325 villages, with a population of 48,573 Orthodox Christians. There are 36 churches and 43 houses of prayer, 57 schools, with 1,676 pupils (of these 700 are foreign children), and 3 asylums. During the year 1908 149 heathen were converted; 3 Mohammedans and 65 non-conformists were also brought into the Orthodox Church. There are 114 workers in the Mission, as follows: One bishop, head of the Mission, 28 priests, 10 deacons, 18 psalm readers, 39 teachers, and 5 women teachers of mission schools, 11 lecturers, and 2 inspectors of Catechetical Schools. In the summer a Preparatory School was opened by the priest, and 60 teachers received missionary training.

The Red Cross Society supports 2 assistant surgeons, 1 priest, and 1 psalm reader; also a woman nurse, who lives in the Chemalsky Asylum.

Kirgiskaya Mission. This covers seven districts. There is an Archimandrite at the head of the Mission. A special priest acting as his assistant, 1 superior of a convent, 8 priests, 4 deacons, 2 psalm readers, 3 volunteers, 1 teacher, and 1 translator are the other workers.

There are 8,006 Orthodox communicants. Of these 7,716 are Russian, and 290 are baptized foreigners of both sexes. There are 13 churches and houses of prayer. In the 9 schools of the Mission there are 166 boys and 68 girls, of whom 27 are recently baptized of both sexes. In the asylums 22 children, mostly orphans and newly baptized, are cared for. In connection with the Mission is a Brotherhood for the workers. During the Year 4 men were brought into the Orthodox Church, 2 being Mohammedans and 2 from other sects.

Tobolskaya is divided into two missions, Obdorskaya and the one working for the Mahammedans in Tobolsk.

for the Mohammedans in Tobolsk.

In Obdorskaya are 4 priests, 1 deacon, 3 psalm readers, and 2 nuns. During the past year 20 men and 17 women were baptized; 73 male and 54 female infants were also baptized. The Mission has a school for foreign children, 16 boys and 9 girls attending. There is likewise an Asylum, with 8 girls and 4 boys. In the Mission Pension there are 13 children in charge of nuns of a mission commune. In connection with this institution are a sister of charity and an assistant surgeon. There is a hospital and poor house, with 16 residents. There are 5 houses of prayer. In connection with the women's commune there is a mission school, having 14 boys and 11 girls.

In the Tobolskaya Mission for the Mohammedans are 13 priests, 12 assistants, 2 deacons, and 1 psalm reader. In the past year 8 Mohammedans were baptized. Ten foreign children are being educated in schools of this Mission.

Krasnoyarskaya Mission. This has two divisions. There are 30,000 foreigners living in the districts, most of them Tatars; the greater number have been baptized.

Yakoutskaya Mission. It has two priests and two itinerant missionaries. There are about 250,000 foreigners in the district. One of the traveling missionaries covered 3,790 versts, converting 655 souls and baptizing 81 infants.

Vladivostokskaya consists of 12 districts, where 12 missionaries are working among Koreans and other foreigners. There are 23 schools for the Koreans, with an attendance of 826 boys and 58 girls. Besides these there are 3 schools of the Ministry of Public Instruction, 2 grade one schools for boys and 2 one-grade girls' schools. During the past year the missionaries converted to the Christian faith 317 Koreans of both sexes. Among the foreigners of the extreme northern villages there are 3 missionaries working. During 1906 they baptized 7 men and 11 women; also 5 male and 4 female infants. In 1907 8 men, 4 women, and 4 infants—3 male and 1 female—were baptized.

In the Blagoveschenskaya Diocese there are many heathen of different beliefs, not counting the Koreans and Chinese. At present there are 20 converts who work as missionaries among their own people. The Russian population is about 4,852. There are 12 schools for the foreigners, 212 boys and 49 girls attending. In the Mission are 12 churches, 31 chapels, and 36 missionaries. In 1908, 909 men and 730 women came to Confession and communed. Sixteen heathen men and 11 women were converted to the Christian faith, and none went back to their former religion. There are 12 schools, though 4 of them are supplied with poorly qualified teachers. This Mission has no asylums nor poor houses. There are some School Pensions for the foreign children, but, owing to lack of funds, they are of little real use.

The Japanese Mission. The report of the Japanese Orthodox Church, on January 1st, 1909, is as follows:

Church Parishes number 265. In these are 30,712 Christians, under the care of the Archbishop and a Bishop—both Russians—33 Japanese priests, 1 Russian and 5 Japanese deacons, 120 preachers and 11 laymen and teachers of church singing. During the year 868 persons were baptized.

The Schools are as follows:

1. In the Tokio Seminary are 54 Japanese students and 16 Russians; in the women's schools, 74 pupils. In connection with the women's school in Tokio is a workshop, where eikons are made and a special eikon woman artist is employed. During the year 4 completed the course in the Catechetical School. In the autumn 22 entered the Seminary from the lower schools.

2. In Kioto, in the women's schools, are 23 pupils, under 5 female and 3 male teachers.

The society for the translation of religious books employs 9 translators and 2 editors.

MISSIONARY ACTIVITY IN EUROPEAN RUSSIA

In the Archangel Diocese there are 4 schools for foreigners, 1 church school, and 3 common schools.

In the Viatskoy Diocese there are 7 villages and a mission for foreigners, with a converted foreigner at its head. He has several assistants. In the 7 villages are 13 schools, with 1,370 boys and 300 girls attending. Among this number are 82 Russians, 617 Tatars, 582 Cheremis, 309 Votiakov, 80 Besermian. Of these 87 are heathen and 8 are adult believers. Three Tatars were baptized during the year.

In the Simberskoy Diocese there are:

- 1. A two-grade women's school, with 96 pupils.
- 2. A two-grade boys' school, with 27 Orthodox pupils.
- 3. A girls' day school, with 64 scholars, among them a baptized Tatar.
- 4. Attending the pedagogical lectures are 23 Orthodox women.
- 5. For the foreigners there is a school of 30 pupils—20 boys and 10 girls. In the Bouinskom village are schools attended by 342 pupils, 305 being boys and 37 girls. Only 13 are Russians; all the others are foreigners.

Saratov Diocese has 13 missionary schools in special buildings. Converted foreigners (priests) teach in their native tongues. There are also 2 church schools, with 526 boys and 77 girls in attendance.

In the Samara Diocese, not counting the Jews who live in the cities, there are thousands of foreigners of different beliefs.

There are 2,641 baptized Tatars, schools for the foreigners, a temperance society, and several schools for adults. In Old Afonkin is a school with 35 pupils—23 Orthodox and 12 heathen. In Arcziapkin is a school with 40 men and 15 women attending; in the village of Lamarkin are 19 pupils from 14 to 27 years of age. In 1908, 40 heathen were converted.

In Ekaterinboursky Diocese, among the missionary institutions, is an asylum for small children. During the year 10 were educated and supported in this asylum.

In the Donsky Diocese is one missionary, with his assistant, who has a seminary education. A Mohammedan, Neeman Ziapoepov, was converted by the missionary and given the name of Nicholas.

The Orenbourgsky Mission has 4 stations in different parts of the diocese. During the past year 27 Mohammedans were baptized.

Tourgaisky Mission is chiefly to Kirgizy and Tatars, the population of the whole district being 232,011. The district is divided into 35 parishes, with 38 priests, 12 deacons, and 26 psalm readers. There are 60 church schools, enrolling 2,521 boys and 1,175 girls.

Makapievsky Mission is in charge of one priest; 69 men have been baptized and 78 women, and also 5 servants of these people. Evening classes for the newly baptized adults are held, and there is also a Russian Kirgize Mission school, with 20 resident Kirgize pupils and 45 day scholars. Among them are 22 Kirgize Mohammedan boys.

Aktubinskaya Mission School has its own building, serving as church and school. To January 1st, 1909, there have been 82 pupils, among them 64 Russians, 16 Kirgize, and 2 Tatars. The school has 18 resident pupils.

Orenbourgsky Diocese has a mission especially for Mohammedans, covering 11 districts. There are 7 converted Mohammedan priests and 5 Russian priests. The mission has a school for Orthodox and foreign children. During 4 years 46 graduated; of these 8 were Russians and 38 foreigners. The majority of graduates become teachers of Mohammedans and psalm readers.

The Ural Mission covers 222,000 square versts, and has only one missionary who constantly travels. During the past year one Tatar was baptized. In one of the villages is a school, with 20 resident pupils, who are fed and clothed by the Mission. They are exceedingly poor.

Stavropolsky Mission is among the Buddhists. During 1908, 215 souls were won to the Orthodox faith. At present one Kalmik, in preparing for baptism, is becoming acquainted with Christian ideas and learning the prayers. The Mission is in charge of a priest and his assistant. There is a church day school, with 11 boys and 7 girls in attendance. The Mission has recently opened a station in Chanlonta and 4 have been converted.

In the village of Djeganssky is a school, with from 40 to 45 pupils, among them only one Russian. The teacher of this school also gives instruction in singing and has formed a choir for the church from among his pupils.

(Note: The above statement of the results of the Missions of the Russian Orthodox Church, as received at the office of the Committee in New York, contained no record of the North American Mission which was mentioned with the Japan Mission at the beginning of the statement, as one of the two Foreign Missions. An estimate of the results of the North American Mission among the non-Christian Indians, Aleuts, and Eskimos, derived from other sources, indicates a fruitage of about 10,000.)

MISSIONS ATLAS AND STATION INDEX

The maps of the present volume contain all the mission stations having resident missionaries from Christendom amongst non-Christians at the close of 1908, so far as these could be secured and located. As the scope of the work is limited to missions to non-Christian peoples, Roman Catholic countries are excluded; while maps of Europe and America appear, for the reason that cities where missionaries to the Jews, the American Indians, and Asiatic immigrants are resident needed to be entered.

One plate is devoted to mission stations of the Roman and Russian Churches. For the Roman Catholic work, use has been made of the very excellent "Katholischen Missions-atlas" of P. Karl Streit, S.V.D., 1908. The location of stations of the Russian Orthodox Church has been made possible by the kindness of Mr. Franklin A. Gaylord of St. Petersburg, and the Russian ecclesiastics who have cooperated with him in the matter. In the case of the last named Church, certain stations have been entered where Russian priests are not permanently residing, though resident native priests and frequent visits by those from Europe make the work continuous.

To facilitate the finding of the stations an Index has been prepared which lists and locates all the stations where missionaries from Christendom, except those of the Roman Catholic and Russian Orthodox Churches, were in residence in 1908. Out-stations permanently occupied by native colleagues and assistants have not been located, for the reason that they are altogether too numerous to admit of being entered.

The location of each mission station is indicated by a numeral denoting the number of the plate upon which it is found, as well as by a capital letter and numeral which correspond to letters and numerals on the map margins, and enable the reader to find the square where the station appears.

The orthography of a place-name often differs from that which is familiar to the reader, and hence a map might be searched in vain for a certain station. The difficulty is obviated by the entrance in the Station

Index of different spellings of the names of cities whose orthography is varied. A cross-reference will show what the name is as printed on the map, and full particulars as to the station in question may be learned from that entry. Thus friends of the American Board would not find Harpoot on the plate devoted to Turkey; but the Station Index gives the information that it is the same as Kharput, on consulting which the location on the map and other details are found.

Following the name of each station and its location are the initials of the society or societies having foreign workers there at the close of 1908. These initials are often familiar to the reader; and, if not, their significance may be learned from the list of societies with their initials found on pages 105 and 106 of this volume. In some cases a numeral enclosed within parenthetical marks follows the society initials. This indicates the year when stated work began at the station.

The location of mission stations on the Atlas was determined from original information received from the various missionary societies. Mechanical considerations required that this information be supplied the cartographer nine months before the meeting of the Missionary Conference. In a few cases, therefore, the names and location of stations where missionaries are resident had not been received at that time and are not indicated on the maps. In such instances the station will be named in the Station Index and the square in which it is found will be indicated. On the other hand, a few stations appear on the maps which ought not to be there. More recent information as to non-occupancy arrived too late to prevent their being printed.

The Commission is indebted to the courtesy of the various missionary societies which have so helpfully cooperated in the work, and especially to John G. Bartholomew, F.R.G.S., to whose cartographical skill the volume owes so much.
